

Memorandum.

Miss Epler has this day promised me, Adelaide Chaffin, in the presence of Maude M. Brown, Gertrude Smith, and Eliza Turner, as witnesses, that (1) if she (Miss Epler) is in college the day before our Commencement, in 1897 and (2) if we remind her of it, - she will tell us the

"Burglar Story."

February 27, 1896.

Miss Epler has not yet
colleged and has not yet burgled.

2.

Things have

Yours, Ray.

3.

Left you my
laundry bag
and my last and
anything else you want. God bless you.

When I arrived
went to Washburn
for a week to rest.
