

Hope you are all following much better and some rested! Best love to all!

Dearest Family

I tucked this paper in my bag to cherish by way of recollection! I just can't realize I'm back, for the week end seems like a dream! And I can't believe exams are past and passed again - that hateful mantle of intellect with its fringe of horror! There's no place like New York for dispelling gloom
- now is there? The more I think about it the more convinced I am that people sweat weekends shamefully as a rule.

When one sees what possibilities a week-end has!

Oliver also very kindly took me up to Grand Central last night and I was glad for there were mobs of people there for the evening. It is perfectly gorgeous!

And life is still thrilling.
I've had a most glorious invitation. Julia Casley has been visiting in Seymour with Constance, who can not stand from a distance (Dr. Howard etc etc) and guess what?

Miss Tractor is giving a picnic - a beautiful market stall for her own - stands in March just on the night before in Seymour. Many distinguished people are coming up from N. Y. for it (and others and evening and diplomats according to Julia) and others so to for a Pat day. non Henry at (Sto Sam has planned with to to propos the travels) This dance is to begin Pat and Pat also' until my other a breakfast is to be served.

Everyone is to go in costume and masked and she wants Julia and me to come on to Seymour over that week end for it. How nit that make your blood tingle?
You didnt tear your hair and beat your breast and do the Greek chorus act generally ever my Chinese costume for nothing, my dear family!" O! You are so good to me! There is some difficulty in making a distinction of the few among the Seymour house party girls for this affair, so Ben Harwood is to ask me to reception at York Hall on Saturday + Julia + I will go with that as our pretext, + the tall incidental
