

Sept. 23.

Dear Carrie,

Your letter from New York was In all right Tuesday evening.

I'm glad you had so good a time the remaining two days. I sent you down a letter Monday, but owing to you not going so late as anticipated, I fear you did not receive it. However, I hope you will none of you be anxious on my account, but believe that as usual I am well.

I wrote you then all that there was to tell about my trip which was not much. It was very comfortable, but my trunk did not come out until Monday morning.

I have barely seen Nellie , who told me that Ida felt badly because you had not received her invitation in time to go to the wedding.

When I have time I want to go and hear all about it from Nellie, Most of our class are back. Bertha Griffin, and Helen Lough two of the finest girls among us are not coming the latter for health reasons, the others I know not why. We haven't our parlor in much order yet, but hope that It will look well by and by - The bundle arrived safely. I am very well pleased with the stockings, they are very pretty and good enough quality. Did you intend the gloves for me? I feared it was a mistake for they are somewhat large, but I shall wear them perhaps, and am much obliged for all.

The girls are talking and I can writs no more connectedly.

Lovingly Julie
