

January 26, 1921

Dear Mother, Father, and Pete:

I have not time to write much, as I must hurry back to the libe. There is a great rush on English Speech books today, inasmuch as the exam is tomorrow, and I have one promised to me for five minutes from now.

Only one more class before exams. We were allowed to ask questions to our hearts' content today in Spanish, chem, and Ec.

More tomorrow.

Fannie