Dear Mother, Father, and Pete:

I shall plan to meet you in Atlantic. I hope the trip does both of you as much good as I hope the few days will do me. I called up the station today. The last through train is at 3:05, I guess I won't make a through train. The 3:50 is a special. They said the last train to North Philadelphia where I could make connections was the 5:10, so I guess the best thing to do is to stay in New York with Jeannette over night and take the first train in the morning. How-ever, I shall write to Uncle Ike. Probably he can get more dope than I can here.

Practically finished catching up in Lab today, so now all the back work I have to do is a J paper. I shall do that over the week-end and be all caught up before Thanksgiving.

I worked pretty hard today and took a walk with Helen. That's about all I know.

Love,

Fannie
