

[postmarked 26 Apr 1922]

Dear Mother, Father, and Pete:

Sorry I couldn't write yesterday, Pete, but Marse's visit, enjoyable as it was, kept me on the go. I had lunch with him and spent most of the afternoon with him, except for academic interruptions. He left on the 5:31. I went to the station with him. I enjoyed having him very much. We had a great walk out to the Kenyon estate together. There is not much he and I agree on, otherwise all is well. He does not believe in college education for girls. Enough said.

I have a Heredity written this afternoon, and I know about as much about the little bugs in question as I do about Greek.

I also got a notice to come to see Miss Ballantine in office hours. I don't know why.

Did I write before that K. Stein told me she had invited Bill Wasserman up for Third Hall?

You might look in the Sunday papers for the pictures of the V. C. debaters. We have them taken for that purpose tomorrow. An impressive group!

I got a very nice answer today from Schlichting, to whom I wrote for Sunday for their dope on the judiciary and the Regalia law. It was all bluff, and she practically admitted it! A fine way to win! She ended up by saying, "My best wishes for you and my sympathy for Brown when you meet them with your thorough knowledge of both sides. We are betting on you!" I feel confident we will win--I don't know why. And none of us are the least excited. We had a practice of speeches last night, and will do nothing until we practice Saturday morning. We debate at 4. P.M. in Assembly Hall. We then go off to dinner with them and take them to the exhibition dance after that.

Nothing else of interest to report.

Love,

Fannie