Dear Mother, Father, and Pete:

Mrs. Hertz took us to the Lodge for dinner last night. We didn't get to the lecture, unfortunately.

I had a cut in Tolerance this morning. Miss Brown is sick. I'm sorry she is, but the time came in very handy nevertheless. I spent the morning reading Elizabethan plays, and I am quite fed up on them.

I am going to hear Miss Ellery this afternoon on the Ruhr Situation.

It is a headache time, and I haven't got one yet--that is quite encouraging.

I just fixed the ribbon--which reminds me that you could use a new sheet of carbon paper with profit, Pete.

Love,

Fannie
