

17 January 1939

Dear Nathan,

A stranger sends me the enclosed letter. We were thinking of referring this man to the "Joint."
Question:

Is the Joint really, in your view, the most advantageous place to competently take charge of such a thing?

If so, to which person should I write over there for the matter to be seriously received?

I don't like to load even more on your back but do believe this is important enough.

Cordial regards,

Yours,

A. Einstein.

Enclosure.
