Biographical Note

Elsie M. Hill (1883-1970) was an American feminist, activist, and leader in the woman suffrage movement. Born in Norwalk, Connecticut in 1883, Hill was the daughter of Mary Ellen Mosman (1846-1918) and Ebenezer J. Hill (1845-1917), a Republican Congressman. In 1906, she graduated from Vassar College and then took a teaching position at a Washington D.C. high school. It was in Washington that she became active in the suffrage movement and began her life-long friendship with Alice Paul. Hill held leading positions in many organizations, but is most well known for her work with the National Woman's Party. Hill's passion for the cause led her to jail (along with her sisters, Clara and Helena) on more than one occasion. After the passage of the 19th amendment, she remained active in the struggle for women's rights, running for public office and working through a variety of organizations to further the cause. From 1921 to 1956 she was married to Albert Lé vitt (1887-1968), a lawyer and politician who served as Judge of the U.S. District Court of the Virgin Islands from 1935 to 1937. The marriage made national news because she kept her maiden name, à la Lucy Stone, which was quite shocking for the era. They had one child, Leslie Hill-Lé vitt Latham (VC 1945-4). In 1968, at the age of 84, Hill made headlines again when she boarded Pan American Airlines first flight from New York to Moscow. Hill died in Norwalk, Connecticut, on August 6, 1970.

For more biographical details, see Hill's profile on the American Memory site at the Library of Congress.

Scope and Content Note

The collection contains correspondence, minutes, reports, press releases, financial and legal papers, clippings, speeches, government documents, articles, and diaries relating to Elsie M. Hill's personal and political activities. Subjects include the National Woman's Party, suffrage, women's rights, Equal Rights Amendment, civil rights, Connecticut politics, civic affairs, her teaching career, history of Joel Barlow, her hobby of breeding Swiss Toggenberg milk goats, and family and personal affairs. Correspondents include Alice Paul, 1915-1970; Anita Pollitzer, 1921-1969; Albert Lé vitt, 1921-1968; her sister Clara M. Hill, 1898-1939; and Cary Fink Baynes, 1903-1939. The collection also includes correspondence of Albert Lé vitt, 1921-1965, with Robert W. Clairborne, Alice Paul, Roscoe Pound, Elsie Hill, Clara M. Hill, his daughter Elsie Hill-Lé vitt, and others. The collection also includes the papers of Clara Mossman Hill, Ebenezer J. Hill, Mary E. Mosman Hill, Albert Lé vitt, and other family members.
