Organized into 13 subseries by subject and sub-arranged chronologically.

[Series II. Buildings and Grounds, 1897-1940 \[141 plates\]](#)

This series consists of images of Vassar College buildings (interior and exterior) and the landscapes of the campus and surrounding area. Highlights include views of Vassar Lake before the Raymond Avenue elevation change in 1966, the southeast portion of campus before Sunset Lake was created, Raymond Avenue before the Faculty Row houses were built, the living and research spaces in the Maria Mitchell Observatory, and maintenance staff harvesting ice with saws and horse-drawn ice plows.

Organized into 18 subseries by subject and sub-arranged chronologically.

[Series III. Class Portraits, 1901-1943 \[120 plates\]](#)

This series contains freshman and senior class portraits from a selection of graduating classes between 1901 and 1943. The images were taken using extra large plates (14 x 17 inches) which provides access to fine details and allows for easier identification of individuals.

Arranged chronologically by class year.

Series IV. Commencement and Reunion, 1900-1942 [711 plates]

In the first half of the 20th century, Vassar's commencement and reunion were part of a 4-5 day long celebration that included a variety of events and traditions. Steady events included Baccalaureate Sunday, the alumnae parade, Class Day exercises, and commencement. Other activities changed over the decades, and included concerts and lectures, luncheons and suppers, tree ceremonies, May Pole dances, and for many years the III Hall Play was repeated for families and alumnae.

This series consists primarily of images from commencement, Class Day exercises, and the alumnae parade. Photos of Sophomores picking daisies for the Daisy Chain are also included. Early graduates and significant alumnae such as Harriette Warner Bishop and Helen D. Woodward (both VC 1867), Mary Augusta Jordan (VC 1876), Harriot Stanton Blatch (VC 1878), Julia Lathrop (VC 1880), and Blanche Ferry Hooker (VC 1894) are pictured; as are faculty, administrators and trustees such as C. Mildred Thompson, Ella McCaleb, Herbert E. Mills, and the astronomers Caroline Furness and Mary Whitney.

Organized into 4 subseries by subject and sub-arranged chronologically.

Series V. Drama, Music, and Dance, 1900-1936 [1,414 plates]

This series consists of images of plays, skit shows, dance performances, and musical events. It comprises the largest series in the Wolven collection. Junior and sophomore parties were generally skit shows written by students. These events included racist and stereotypical costumes and performances, including use of blackface. The major dramatic productions ("Hall" plays) include previously produced pieces, as well as material written by students, faculty, and alumnae, including Edna St. Vincent Millay.

Arranged chronologically.

Series VI. Events and Festivals, 1915-1944 [131 plates]

This series includes images of events that were not as large or well-photographed as Field Day, Founder's Day, and commencement and reunion activities. The annual class tree ceremonies, proms, 50th college anniversary, maypole dances, conferences, protests, community work, and other activities are included. Highlights include pageants and performances from the College's 50th Anniversary celebrations, the 1924 Institute for a Christian Basis of World Relations, and 1920's Township Day, which welcomed Arlington children to campus to participate in athletics and dramatic performances.

Organized into 8 subseries by subject and sub-arranged chronologically.

Series VII. Founder's Day, 1900-1935 [300 plates]

This series consists of images of Founder's Day, an annual Vassar College tradition that has included a variety of activities since the first celebration on April 29th, 1866--Matthew Vassar's birthday. The images in this series document visits to the founder's grave, step-singing and the Song Contest, the faculty-student baseball game, parades, and various performances. Attendees of the baseball game, the parades, and the performances were encouraged to dress in costume, according to either a predetermined theme or individual whim. With some frequency, these costumes and performances were based on racist or stereotypical representations of marginalized groups, including blackface, redface, and yellowface. Similarly, the faculty play or skit show which was given on the evening of Founder's Day, included racist and stereotypical costumes and performances.

Organized into 11 subseries by year or year group, and sub-arranged alphabetically by title.

Series VIII. Miscellaneous Vassar College Subjects, 1900-1940 [46 plates]

This series consists of additional subjects related to Vassar College that do not fall under any previous series. Selected highlights from this set include group portraits of the Good Fellowship Club men's and women's basketball teams, a classroom scene of a "preparedness course" on shorthand taught shortly after the U.S. entered World War I, and students working at Lincoln Center, the Poughkeepsie organization that assisted the poor.

Arranged roughly in chronological order.

Series IX. Non-Vassar, 1900-1929 [20 plates]

This series includes Wolven's portraits of classes at St. Stephen's College (now Bard College), the Putnam School, and Riverview Military Academy, as well as views of Poughkeepsie streets and landscapes, including the Mid-Hudson Bridge while it was under construction.
